

SolarSim Terms of Use

By using the SolarSim web application (hereinafter: "the application"), you agree to the following terms of use. If you do not agree to these terms, you should not use the application.

1. Purpose and Application

The application is intended solely for educational and informational purposes. SolarSim allows users to perform simulations and calculations related to solar energy generation. The results and data generated by the application should not be regarded as professional advice or binding guidelines.

2. Liability

Use of the application is entirely at your own risk. Although we strive for correct and stable operation, we cannot guarantee the accuracy, completeness, timeliness, or availability of the application or the data generated. SolarSim and its developers are not liable for any direct or indirect damage of any kind arising from:

- The use or inability to use the application;
- Errors or omissions in the information;
- Technical failures or security issues.

3. Intellectual Property

All intellectual property rights relating to the application, including but not limited to software, code, design, logos, texts, data, and other content, belong exclusively to the developers of SolarSim or its licensors. It is not permitted to copy, reproduce, distribute, edit, or commercially exploit any part of the application without prior written permission.

4. Permitted Use and Misuse

Users must refrain from any use of the application that violates the law, public order, or these terms. It is specifically prohibited to:

- Use the application in a manner that harms third parties or undermines the functioning of the application;
- Attempt to bypass security measures;
- Gain unauthorized access to systems of SolarSim or third parties;
- Manipulate, copy, or delete data without permission.

5. Changes

SolarSim reserves the right to modify or supplement these terms of use at any time. Changes take effect as soon as they are published on the website or within the application. It is the user's responsibility to review these terms periodically.